The Studio Coach's Code

(current as of 2026-11-07)

1 The conversation belongs to the coachee and me.

I don't pass session notes, AI summaries or messages to sponsors, bosses or HR. Sponsors see progress, not conversations.

2 AI waits for a yes.

I never record or transcribe until my coachee has said yes in the app, or their written consent is on record. A spoken "fine by me" is not consent. A No is final until they change it.

3 I share on purpose.

A note, a goal, a report or an assessment result reaches the coachee or sponsor only when I've decided it should.

4 Development, not evaluation.

Coaching data and 360 results are for the leader's growth, never for pay, rating or promotion decisions.

5 I never work out who said what.

In a 360, I track counts, not people, and I don't tell a coachee who hasn't responded.

6 My partner code is mine.

I use it only for my own purchases.

7 I keep the record honest.

I write what I need to keep in my own words, because AI summaries are deleted after the engagement ends.
