Culture Dig Story Prompt Review Card

Facts current as of 2026-11-07

Five tests for every prompt

(AI draft, hand-written or library)

1. Asks for one thing that happened ("Tell us about a time…"), not an opinion or a rating.
2. Answerable from any role, anywhere in the organization.
3. Open: a good, bad or mixed story all fit. It doesn't name the answer.
4. States no finding. Never "Given that…".
5. Points at nobody: no specific person, team, incident or document from the fieldwork. Only you can check this.

Plus: one or two sentences, in the organization's own words.

Before the link opens

- [ ] Teams have logged some fieldwork; drafts come from their findings
- [ ] At least one approved prompt per domain; aim for the same number in each
- [ ] Library prompts reworded into the client's language (they're added approved)
- [ ] Linked Culture Mosaic? Use its lowest subcomponents as claims to test, not the only topics
- [ ] Follow-up questions: unchanged (fine), or edited with healthier end and concerning corner checked
- [ ] Distribution plan reaches people without email (huddles, QR codes, manager read-outs)
- [ ] Messages promise only what the page and distribution provide

While stories arrive

- [ ] Check stories by domain every few days
- [ ] A domain falling behind → add a second, concrete prompt early
- [ ] Midpoint reminder sent

Closing

- Pause or close on the date → Close collection (reversible)
- Finished for good → Mark program complete (closes the link; reopening the program doesn't reopen it)
